Introduction

A Guide to Doing Business With the Department of State is designed to familiarize small, minority, and female-owned businesses with the Department's procurement program. The Guide is intended to assist those small, minority, and female-owned firms seeking to do business with the Department in identifying procurement opportunities within the Department.

The Guide is issued by the Office of Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization (A/SDBU), located in Arlington, Virginia, in State Annex 6, 1700 North Lynn Street, Room 633. Acquisition Program Profile

The mission of the Department of State is the conduct of foreign policy. The Department seeks qualified small businesses, minority-owned businesses, and female-owned businesses to participate in the acquisition process in support of this mission.

Major procurements include the Automated Data Processing Distributed Systems; Worldwide Diplomatic Security Support, Narcotics Eradication, Communications Equipment; and Furnishings for Embassies and Consulates. The contract spectrum includes the following:

Research and Development

A small research and development program (less than $5 million annually) is conducted in support of such programs as physical security, operation of worldwide telecommunications networks, and computer applications. Research and Development is not a major component of the State Department's acquisition program.

Supplies and Equipment

There are ongoing requirements for the following types of supplies and equipment. Many of these procurements are suitable for small business participation and some offer subcontracting possibilities.

- (a) Telecommunications equipment for use worldwide.
- (b) Computer software/hardware equipment and applications. Software and programming requirements are particularly suited to small business participation.*
- (c) Security equipment for the physical protection of diplomatic personnel and installations.
- (d) Household furnishings for embassies and consulates.

Services

- (a) Continuing requirements for maintenance services for communication equipment.
- (b) Requirements for packing and storage of household goods provide an excellent opportunity for small business participation.
- (c) General labor services, i.e., moving, messenger, clerical.
- (d) Management studies and surveys relating to mission activities.
- (e) Facilities maintenance services.

* The State Department has an outdated base of proprietary office automation and data processing systems. It is now planning and implementing a migration toward open systems architecture. The Department has a multiyear plan to accomplish this migration.

 The State Department commissions studies and special projects to examine a wide range of subjects in response to requests from Congress, recommendations by the General Accounting Office and the Office of the Inspector General, or at the behest of management. These studies are either performed by internal working groups or contracted out. Unlike recurring services, however, it is difficult to plan for or predict when the Department might have need for such external studies.

Credit Card Sales

The Government's VISA card is called "International Merchant Purchase Authorization Card" or IMPAC. It is issued to certain Department employees under a delegation of purchase authority to pay for certain types of small purchases (no single purchase may exceed $2,500) such as office supplies, copier supplies, and maintenance; books and subscriptions; and repair of property and equipment (other than building property). Firms that accept IMPAC, and which wish to market their product to the Department should direct their attention to page A-30 for a partial list of cardholders. To learn more about accepting the IMPAC VISA credit card, you may contact your local bank and ask for a "VISA Merchant Account" or call First Bank Systems' Customer Service at 1-800-945-4689.

A single-award schedule contract for Government-wide commercial purchase card IMPAC service using the VISA purchase card has been implemented. The current contract GS-23F94031 (Federal Supply Schedule-Industrial Group 615, Industrial Class 6153), is a mandatory source for the Department. The IMPAC program is under the direction of the General Services Administration and is operated by Rocky Mountain BankCard System in Denver, Colorado. It is designed to meet the requirements of the Government for purchases that do not exceed $2,500 per transaction. Merchants who want information about accepting VISA cards should either contact their local banks or call Rocky Mountain BankCard System for assistance. The number is 1-800-945-4689.

Regional Procurement and Support Office

U.S. Embassy/Bonn

The Department of State's Embassy in Bonn, Germany, has a Regional Procurement and Support Office (RPSO) that supports the purchasing needs of many of the other American embassies abroad, particularly those in Europe, the Near East, Africa, and posts in the newly independent states (formerly the U.S.S.R.).

In Fiscal Year 1996, RPSO/Bonn purchased over $24 million in goods and services, much of which was from U.S. vendors. The majority of these purchases are under $100,000 ("simplified acquisition"). Acquisitions include: medical supplies and equipment, computers and peripherals, software, large household appliances, expendable and nonexpendable office supplies, furniture, subscriptions and books, educational materials, vehicles and spare parts, construction materials and supplies, and other miscellaneous goods and services.

Firms interested in selling to the RPSO/Bonn should send descriptive literature on their product line, including prices, to Charles Krips, Director, or Lisa Million, Assistant Director, RPSO/Bonn, c/o American Embassy/Bonn, PSC 117 Box 1851, APO AE 09080. Small, small minority-owned, and small women-owned businesses should clearly indicate their size and ownership status when mailing product information to RPSO/Bonn. While overseas posts, including RPSO/Bonn, are not required by law to comply with U.S. domestic policy concerning Federal socioeconomic procurement preference programs, posts attempt to observe such policy where practicable (FAX 011-49-333-575).

U.S. Embassy/Tokyo

The U. S. Embassy in Tokyo, Japan, has a Regional Procurement and Support Office (RPSO) that supports the purchasing needs of many of the other American Embassies and Consulates abroad, particularly those in the former Soviet bloc of nations and the Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS), Africa, the Near East, the Middle East, and the Far East.

In Fiscal Year 1996, RPSO/Tokyo purchased over $8 million in goods and services. The majority of these purchases were under $100,000 ("simplified acquisition") and fall into three main categories: (1) Japanese-made automobiles with right-hand steering, and with left-hand steering for which no other available source exists in the particular constituent location for parts, supplies, and services; (2) automobile parts for vehicles made in Japan; (3) airfreight and shipping services to constituent posts of American Embassy Tokyo; and other miscellaneous goods and services that do not fall into any of the other categories.

Firms interested in selling to the RPSO/Tokyo should send descriptive literature on their products line(s), including prices, to Alvin Chen, Director, RPSO Tokyo, c/o American Embassy/Tokyo, Unit 45002, Box 212, APO AP 96337-0001. Small, minority-owned, and small women-owned businesses should clearly indicate their size and ownership status when mailing product information to RPSO/Tokyo. Although overseas posts, including RPSO/Tokyo, are not required by law to comply with U.S. domestic policy concerning Federal socioeconomic procurement preference programs, posts attempt to observe such policy where practicable. (FAX 011-81-3-3505-1862).

U.S. Embassy/Singapore

The U.S. Embassy in Singapore has a Regional Procurement Support Office (RPSO) that supports the purchasing needs of many of the other American Embassies and Consulates abroad, particularly those in the East Asian and Pacific and The South Asian regions.

In Fiscal Year 1996, Singapore purchased over $3 million in goods and services. The majority of these purchases were under $100,000 ("simplified acquisitions"). Supplies purchased include heating and air-conditioning equipment, household appliances, other small electrical appliances and equipment, consumer and office electronics, medical supplies, motor vehicles and motor vehicle parts and supplies, computer equipment and software, office equipment, household and office furniture, and construction materials and supplies. The electrical power application used in the regions served by RPSO Singapore is 220V/50Hz. Services include building maintenance (cleaning, gardening, HVAC, etc.), security guards, computer systems, architect-engineer, construction, equipment leases, and airfreight and seafreight shipping.

Firms interested in selling to the RPSO Singapore should send descriptive literature on their product line(s), including prices, shipping terms and prices, and product support and warranty information, to the Director, RPSO Singapore, at the following address: American Embassy, PSC 470 Box RPSO, FPO AP 96534-0001. Small, minority, and small women-owned businesses should indicate their size and ownership status when mailing product information to RPSO Singapore. While overseas posts, including RPSO Singapore, are not required by law to comply with U.S. domestic policy concerning Federal socioeconomic procurement preference programs, posts attempt to observe such policy where practicable.

Additional information on RPSO Singapore can be found on the U.S. Department of State, Office of the Procurement Executive's Acquisition Home Page, under the category "Acquisition Organizations." The Internet address is <http://www.statebuy.Inter.net/home.htm>. RPSO Singapore's facsimile number is 011-65-476-9003.

In Fiscal Year 1996, RPSO—FL purchased over $5,000,000 in goods and services. The majority of these purchases were under $100,000 ("simplified acquisition"). Purchases include heating and air-conditioning units and repair parts; computer equipment and software; small/large household appliances; office electronics; medical supplies/equipment; automotive parts/tires; electrical equipment/supplies; telecommunications equipment/supplies; construction materials/supplies; household/office furniture; printing requirements; and carpet/flooring supplies and equipment. In the Omnibus Diplomatic Security and Antiterrorism Act of 1986 (PL 99-399), Congress has authorized funds to be appropriated to carry out diplomatic security construction, acquisitions, and operations pursuant to the Department of State's Supplemental Diplomatic Security Program.

Information regarding these projects is released through the Commerce Business Daily and other construction trade publications when the projects are ready to be designed, constructed, or government-furnished materials are to be purchased.

Firms interested in performing Embassy construction should direct their attention to Section 402 of the Omnibus Diplomatic Security and Antiterrorism Act of 1986. Section 402 addresses preference for U.S. contractors, utilization of minority and small business contractors, qualifications criteria, and subcontracting limitations on construction projects.

Notification of Metric Transition

In 1975 and 1988, legislation was enacted that denoted the metric system of measurement as the preferred system of weights and measures for the United States Trade and Commerce. Furthermore, Executive Order 12770 promoted the use of the metric system of weights and measures through contracts, grants, and other business-related activities to the extent economically feasible.

The metric system can provide substantial advantages to the Federal Government in its operations, and the Department of State, unique in its international mission and environment, has an important role to play in the Federal Government's transition.

Therefore, all employees of the Department, as well as those businesses that do business with the Department, are encouraged to participate in moving departmental functions to the metric system of weights and measures.

Any questions regarding the Department of State Metric Transition Program should be directed to Mr. Robert E. Lloyd in the Office of the Procurement Executive.

Alternative Disputes Resolution

The Administrative Dispute Resolution Act of 1990 and the National Performance Review of 1993 encouraged agencies to use Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) techniques in resolving disputes. Executive Order 12979, Agency Procurement Protest, signed October 26, 1995, calls for agency heads to establish administrative procedures for resolving bid protests at the agency level "as an alternative" to outside protest forums.

Formal litigation of these matters is a long and costly process that oftentimes establishes an adversarial relationship between the Government and the private sector. ADR, on the other hand, includes a wide range of resolution techniques, tends to be less costly, and is far more efficient than litigation. It also keeps resolution of the matter within the control of the disputants. The parties choose the ADR method of resolution; establish the rules of engagement; determine who will be the decisionmakers; define the issues; and otherwise control the entire process.

Some of the ADR techniques that may be used include minitrials, mediation, factfinding, and arbitration. Resolution of the matter is approached from a "partnership" standpoint, with a common goal to preserve the business relationship and avoid the costs and delays so often experienced in formal litigation. We encourage use of ADR whenever possible.

In general, FOIA requests must be submitted in writing containing enough information about the documents requested to permit the Department to locate them with a reasonable amount of effort. Memo to Small, Disadvantaged, and Female (SD&F) Business Owners

The Department of State is steadily and substantially increasing participation by small and small-disadvantaged businesses, female-owned businesses, in a broad spectrum of acquisitions through the expanded use of small, disadvantaged, and female-owned business firms locally, nationally, and internationally. These acquisitions range from recurring needs for goods or services to one-time needed procurements or research projects. Good results have been achieved principally through a daily intensive review of acquisitions and/or increased efforts by user offices to locate SD&F suppliers. Also, we have kept close liaison with local and regional offices of the Small Business Administration that have furnished names of suppliers of goods or services. In addition, we search our vendor file, using Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) codes, to locate prospective suppliers. Using the foregoing methodology, the Department is gradually broadening its base of information on SD&F firms. More and more supplies and services under the small purchase threshold will be awarded to SD&F firms and, similarly, larger acquisitions should increase substantially.

For example, Washington, D.C. receives many requisitions for services ranging from office furniture and furnishings to software and maintenance of hardware, communications, and building maintenance.

Beyond the District of Columbia, SD&F firms in various cities throughout the United States have participated in advertising, architectural and engineering design, computer software services, messenger vehicle maintenance, and international affairs research.

Recently, the Department has extended SD&F firm participation in its acquisitions beyond the continental United States, primarily in the drug abuse and narcotics control program and in renovation, rehabilitation, and maintenance of U.S. Embassies overseas. Administrative, statistical, research-type acquisitions to be performed abroad will also be awarded to qualified small, disadvantaged, and female-owned businesses.

Whenever a conference is held by the Department of State, a variety of local facilities are utilized. These are: motel/hotel space, vehicle rentals, telephones, clerical help, and advertising.

Firms wishing to do business with the Department of State may request a Vendor Profile Database Diskette. This system is maintained by OSDBU and provides a diskette that contains over 100 fields of information to be completed. To obtain the diskette, phone (703) 875-6822. When complete, please remit to:

Trade Promotion Activities of the Department of State That Can Benefit Small, Minority, and Women-Owned Firms in Exporting

Assisting U.S. business is a major responsibility of the Department of State. The Secretary of State has directed all members of U.S. Embassies and consular posts abroad to consider the promotion of U.S. business and economic interests to be a top priority and to support U.S. firms vigorously in foreign markets. The Ambassador, as head of the "Country Team," takes the lead in promoting U.S. trade and investment in 272 diplomatic and consular establishments in over 160 foreign countries.

The Department of State offers trade promotion services that can be of benefit to the minority business community. Each of the below-mentioned contacts can provide insight, advice, and assistance in the export efforts of minority firms:

The Office of the Coordinator for Business Affairs (E/CBA) serves as the primary contact point for the business community in the Department. Officials are in daily contact with private sector firms and business groups throughout the country through meetings, briefings, speeches, and other programs. E/CBA answers inquiries from businesses, individuals, and Congress, and maintains close liaison with regional bureau commercial coordinators, country desk officers, Commerce, AID, and other agencies involved in export promotion activities. (Phone: (202) 647-1625).

Embassies and Consulates overseas are charged with assisting the U.S. business community abroad. Ambassadors hold regularly scheduled meetings with American Chambers of Commerce in almost every country where there are such groups. Our Embassy commercial and economic staffs are available to assist American minority firms with political and economic briefings, professional advice and analysis on the business culture and practices of the country, and assistance in making and developing contacts abroad.

Personnel of the Department of Commerce's U.S. and Foreign Commercial Service (USFCS) are stationed in 69 countries where our major markets are located. State Department officers are responsible for commercial work in over 100 countries with smaller markets where USFCS personnel are not present. The important point is that in all our Embassies, regardless of size or location, or which agency takes the lead, there are personnel to provide information and counsel to American firms, help them with problems, and see to it that they get a fair shot at contracts and sales.

The Regional Bureaus, each under the direction of an Assistant Secretary of State, are responsible for U.S. foreign affairs activities in a specific major region of the world. They are the Bureaus of African, Inter-American, European and Canadian, Near Eastern, South Asian, and East Asian and Pacific Affairs. Country "desk officers" maintain day-to-day contact with overseas diplomatic posts and provide country specific economic and political analysis and commercial counseling to U.S. business.

The Office of Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization (A/SDBU) actively promotes the use of small businesses by our various program and procurement personnel, both domestically and at our Embassies and Consulates overseas. The Department is committed to ensuring that small businesses receive a fair share of the procurement dollars we spend. (Contact: Durie N. White, phone (703) 875-6824).

Publications: The Department produces various publications of interest to minority business, including Key Officers of Foreign Service Posts: A Guide for Business Representatives and A Guide To Doing Business With the Department of State.

Commercial Posts of the Department of State (Posts With No FCS Presence)

While most U.S. commercial posts of the Department of State have assigned to them a Department of Commerce Foreign Commercial Service (FCS) officer to promote exporting by U.S. firms, the following posts have no FCS presence. Export promotion at such posts is a function of Department of State personnel:

Electronic Services EC/EDI Fact Sheet (The Basics)

What is Electronic Commerce (EC)?

Electronic Commerce (EC) is the paperless exchange of business information, using Electronic Data Interchange (EDI), electronic mail, electronic bulletin boards, electronic funds transfer, and other similar technologies.

What is Electronic Data Interchange (EDI)?

Electronic Data Interchange (EDI), a major part of Electronic Commerce (EC), is the computer-to-computer exchange of business data in a standardized format.

What are the major benefits of EDI?

- Increased business opportunities through wider diffusion of procurement information;
- Improved quality through improved record-keeping, fewer errors in data, reduced processing delays, less reliance on human interpretation of data, and minimized unproductive time;
- Greater competition and reduced prices;
- Savings from reduction of inventories, mailroom sorting/distribution time, elimination of lost documents, and reduction of postage and other mailing costs;
- Reduced order time; and
- Better and more up-to-date information for management decisionmaking.

What is necessary to begin using EDI?

Should you intend to become fully EDI-capable, you will need a personal computer, a modem, ANSI X12 compliant EDI translation software or access to an EDI translation service, EDI implementation conventions, and a subscription to a Value Added Network (VAN).^{*} However, should you opt not to become fully EDI-capable, it is possible for you to exchange EDI transactions with the Government through the use of services provided by Value Added Service (VAS) providers. Such services (EDI-to-Fax, for example) allow you to participate in the Government EDI-based acquisition efforts without investing in EDI-related computer hardware and software.

^{*}VAN price and services list can be found on the Internet at:

<http://www.state.gov> (there is a link to the San Antonio ECRC)

Further, you will need to secure the following unique identification numbers for your business:

- DUNS number assigned by Dun and Bradstreet, 1-800-333-0505;
- CAGE code assigned by the Defense Logistics Service Center if you intend to do business with the Department of Defense; 616-961-4955; if you currently do business with DoD, you should already have a CAGE code;
- Tax Identification Number (TIN) assigned by the Internal Revenue Service, 1-800-829-1040.

What are some sources of information on EC/EDI?
